

Sugar, spice, and the digits 1 through 9: these were the ingredients chosen to create the perfect little girls. But Professor Utonium accidentally added an extra ingredient to the concoction: Numeral X!

Instructions

Blossom, Bubbles, and Buttercup's grids are Kakuro (Cross Sums) puzzles, with one rule changed: in addition to the digits 1 through 9, you may also use the letter X, which represents the number 10.

Example Puzzle

		27	9	38
	27
4
22					13
7			7
		4
	20
	12

Example Solution

		27	9	38
	27	X	8	9
4
22	3	8	1	X	13
7	1	6	7	4	3
		4
	20	2	1	7	X
	12	1	3	8

Puzzle continued on next page

6 Numeral X, continued

(repeated from the previous page)

Blossom, Bubbles, and Buttercup's grids are Kakuro (Cross Sums) puzzles, with one rule changed: in addition to the digits 1 through 9, you may also use the letter X, which represents the number 10.

Blossom
	18	29	27	9		37	21
21					18
47					7
	9			8
11					19
6			8		7
19				5			15
				17
28
4			22

Bubbles
		33	8	19	6	28
	19						40
36
49
12					16
18					10
19			9	8	14	12
31
	15

Buttercup
		21	34		39	7
	16				14		19
18					15
12				8
47
	10	12				20	9
36
27				6
	4			8

Numeral X

Copy each X into its corresponding location in the grid above to make a picture of the final answer.